Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology is to move out to the Allston golf links. Fore!

The success of the rebels in Mexico will fire the rebels elsewhere to emulation. After Diaz, "next gent!"

The Glidden tourists will not gladden Montpelier—except for lunch. Still Montpelier ought to be happy that it is no worse.

Middlebury college should be able to scrape together $41,200.00 before next December and thus get that $200,000 from the general education board. To let the opportunity slip would be a tremendous reverse for the Addison county college.

"Mascom" from Enfield is to be used in partial exterior construction of a huge Masonic building in Washington, D. C. This is one of the rare instances wherein New Hampshire justifies its name as the "Granite state."

Diaz, Madero, De La Barra ruling in Mexico all at once make a fine triumvirate nominally; but there is no doubt where the primal power rests. Madero is holding the whip hand just at present and likely to continue until he in turn loses his hero popularity. Then, for another rebellion in Mexico.

When there are several headless colleges about the country seeking presidents, the university of Vermont is to be congratulated on going about the selection of the late President Buckham's successor in such a business-like way. For much of the energy displayed, Elias Lyman of Burlington, the acting president, is largely responsible. He has both energy and enthusiasm.

Montreal sees the disadvantage of being merely a summer port; in fact, all Canada sees it, and hence the investigations, ending in yesterday's report, how the port can be an all-the-year port. The great railroad lines will soon be seeking other ports, and probably in New England, if Canada cannot remedy the winter difficulty; and it is more than likely that the search has already started.

While the Central Vermont is planning to add passenger trains to its schedule during the coming summer, the Boston & Maine is reported to be planning to cut off some trains between Concord and Boston. The traveling public on the latter may have a protest to enter concerning the proposed reduction; at least one would expect a protest at curtailed service. People on the Central Vermont line would most certainly object if any trains were to be taken off because there is not a superabundance of trains at the present time, going either north or south.

The Rutland railroad has been doing something to bring summer visitors to Vermont, having just sent out a booklet, "Across the Islands and Beyond," a volume which, as the Rutland Herald states, "abounds in beautiful illustrations of lake ports, islands, valley scenery, gorges, brooks, waterfalls, forests, islands, shore drives and the like."
